Economics majors will be required to take a minimum of seven ECON courses at the 300 level and above at Monmouth College.

If considering a master's in economics, calculus is a pre-requisite and can be taken as an elective junior year.

Students must complete a minimum of 16 course credits during the junior and senior year at Monmouth College for a total of 32 course credits to be awarded the Bachelor of Arts degree. No more than 13 course credits may be taken in a single discipline (ECON). No more than 16 course credits may be taken in a single department (BUSI/ECON). Students may take additional BUSI and ECON courses provided the maximum limits are not exceeded.

Only grades of C- or better may be applied to the major. Students must earn a minimum 2.0 GPA in major and a minimum 2.0 overall cumulative GPA for the degree.
